

DePauw University
A-106 Julian Science & Mathematics Center
602 S. College Avenue
Greencastle, IN 46135

August 22, 2003

Subject: Letter of Recommendation for Nathaniel Colvin

Dear Dr. Trinkle:

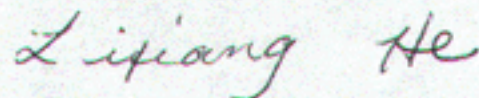

I worked closely with Nathaniel for one year when I was a Student Director for the START program and also during my summer internship as a computer consultant. From a student employee perspective, I see that Nathaniel demonstrated several key attributes that would make him a successful candidate for the ITAP Assistant Director position.

As a Student Director, I saw how much Nathaniel respected the input of his student employees. He was always eager and open to new suggestions and constantly had students contribute ideas that further implemented the newly developed technology program. As a result of his leadership qualities and his ability to interact well with students, the START program was able to develop into a more recognized and accessible program to the DePauw community.

Along with being respectful and considerate to his students, Nathaniel was able to inspire them by his work ethic. He consistently challenged his student workers by his optimistic attitude and his philosophy, "Nothing is impossible."

With these strengths and his outstanding computer skills, Nathaniel would be an excellent candidate for the position.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Lixiang He".

Lixiang He